Message from Mr. Roman

As we have embarked on a new school year and I have been fortunate to take over as principal of such a great school at Eureka, I think I can provide some insights to our students and parents about the strengths our teaching staff brings to the table that I have observed in just a short time. The first is friendliness. While I am an outsider to this community I have been welcomed warmly by the staff and have been able to focus on building positive working relationships with every staff member. I have also felt welcome by the community at large. Every person I've met has been friendly and honest. I've enjoyed talking to everyone on a wide range of topics about the school, community, or history of Eureka. One striking example of this friendliness is the "car wave". How many times you pass someone you don't know as a new member of this community who waves at you when you pass them in your car or walking down the street. It is a great reminder of what a special place this community is. The second strength our teaching staff brings to the table is experience. When one looks at the ability to educate and what each educator has in their toolbox to teach the students at Eureka, our students are very fortunate to have such talented educators. Literally, hundreds of years of experience if you add it all up. The third and last strength I have observed from our staff is true caring for students in this building. Staff comes together to support students at their activities, like homecoming week. Staff is proactive in finding ways to work as a team to find ways to support students who struggle and need extra support. They truly care about the success of all their students and their futures. It is a great example of the finest aspects of public education you can find anywhere. Overall, I'm glad that I've been able to be given the opportunity to experience this community and lead the staff at Eureka High School. Most important, I'm glad to be involved with such great kids at the school.
